

Joe Dickson – 1994

The longtime “angel” of public links golf in Kentucky, “Uncle Joe” Dickson was a prime figure in golf in Kentucky. He served as a USGA Public Links Committeeman for over 25 years, and directed the Kentucky Public Links Championship for many years, as well as the Falls Cities Championship. He was the primary force behind the U.S. Public Links Championship coming to Shawnee Golf Course in 1932 and Seneca Golf Course in 1950. The award presented to the low public links scorer in the Kentucky Amateur Championship is named in his honor.
